
A FUNNY THING HAPPENED . . .

LAST year at the Edinburgh Festival, sculptor and sponsored film maker David Hall shot "7 TV Pieces." These were short films lasting three or four minutes which explored the nature of TV and TV sets. Scottish Television screened them as "interruptions" to normal TV programmes.

Hall's new project, provisionally entitled "Cinema," for which the Arts Council has put up £2,500, will reflect "7 TV Pieces" in form and content. It will take an unusual look at our approach to viewing films.
